FROM THE POTOMAC ARET. WASHINGTON, April 13. Washingtons, April 13.
A correspondent from the Army of the Potomics says that wery little fighting took place on the 7th inst. At Farmville there was some skirmishing between the enemy's rear guard and the 2d corps with the 2d division of cavalry, the result being unimportant.

division of cavalry, the result baing unimportant.

Lie had intended to fall back on Burksville, but, being cut off by our forces getting to Eurksville, he changed his course and started toward Lynchburg. A part of his army passed through Farmsville on the morning of the 7th. After crossing the Appenantox the bridges were burned, and before our troops could get over, the enemy had taken a position a mile from the river, where they erected works and made a stand, in order to allow their wagon trains to get out of the way.

On this side of the river, just outside of the town, a division of cavalry had taken up a position, determined to annoy our advances while reconstructing the bridge. The 21 Division, under General Crooks, attacked them vigorously, driving them back tacked them vigorously, driving them back some distance, but they had a force dis-mounted, lying in ambush, which poured a heavy fire lute our men as they advanced the second attack, and they were com-ciled to fall back on their supports. The bols soon after retired, being indisposed chois soon after rearred, being indisposed to await another charge.

The loss on both sides was very light.

The 2d corps, soon after, crossed the river, and, pushing on after the enemy, drove hem behind their newly built breastwarks. Seneral Smyth was severely, and it is believed mortally, wounded in leading the charge. This was a sad loss to the company of the c mand; every man in it feels the loss as a personal one. A more gallant soldier never erved his country; and he not only ranked high for bravery on the field, but as a gen-leman and a friend he was beloved by all who knew him.

The loss in the 2d corps will be about 150, nostly of Smyth's division.
In the morning, before the enemy crossed the river, twelve guns were taken from them, and afterwards six more, making eighteen during the day, and about 2,000

The number of prisoners taken on the th is put down at 7,700, almost entirely f Kershaw's and Curtis Lee's divisions. The correspondent, siter giving further details of events, but which have mainly been published through official sources, says: The field where the surrender took says: The field where the surrender took place was almost covered with the enemy's dead, all of them, nearly, being shot in the head and the upper part of the body. The position was a very favorable one for them, but our artiflery had good range on an adjoining hill, and our men charged up the ascent with such impetuosity that some were bayeneted before they left their light breastworks. The road for miles was strewn with broken wagous, caissons and hagenare of all kinds, presenting a scene baggage of all kinds, presenting a scene seldom witnessed on the part of Lee's ar-my. Their loss on the 6th will sum up about 800 in killed and wounded. The Sixth corps suffered the severest.

Another letter dated on the evening of the Sih says: Stragglers are found scatterd slong the line, and as the troops pass hey come in and surrender, expressing heir determination to fight no longer, as bny consider the rebellion as good as over. Guns were brought in this morning, besides a long train of simbulauces, many of them containing wounded, who were placed in the hospitals and cared for. Gen. Gordon sent four surgeons through the lines this r. , asking that they be allowed to minister the wants of those left behind on the read, but as all have plenty of such help, they will return to the army in the mora-

Notwithstanding the correspondence be-ween Generals Grant and Lee yesterday, which led all to expect a formal surrender this morning, the latter exerted all his en-orgies to escape the net laid for him. He marched rapidly all yesterday afternoon and evening until he ran against Sheridan at Appointant Court House. A sharp fight at Appointance Court House. A sharp ngatenaued, resulting in the capture of a number of prisoners and checking their retreat. The 24th and 5th corps were close up in support of the cavalry, and during the night took up a strong position across the main road and on the south side of the Appointance the Appointtox river on the north side, outing them off from retreat in that direction. Early this a. w. Sheridan attacked vigor-ously, and for some time a brisk engagenent was carried on. About seven c'clock a. m. a dag-of-truce appeared in front of his line and he was informed that hostili-ties had been suspended. This was caused by an agreement made by General Ord, consenting to a cessation of firing so as to communicate with General Grant, and was one, it is said, without proper authority. General Sheridan's Adjutant General was allowed to come through the rebel column o communicate with General Mesde, who stated that he knew of no such arrange-ment, and that he was about to move forward in accordance with his previous inention. General Lee, however, sent an-ther message desiring to have an interview with General Grant, to arrenge the terms surrender and General Meade was thus obliged to grant a two hours' armistice, in order to communicate with General Grant, who had moved around to the left. During ioneral Lee and discuss the matter. About half past four o'clock Lieut.-Colonel Whit-tier, of General Wright's staff, came in and reported the arrangement complete and the papers signed, when the greatest excitement prevailed throughout our lines—cheer upon cheer reading the air. Soon after, General Mende's skeff, with other officers, rode slong the lines of the 2d and 6th corps and they were greeted with the most enthusiastic shouts, the men throwing their hats in air and dancing with joy and de-light. No such scene has ever been witness ed in this army, and the thanks of the whole country are due the brave men and their commanders at such a great and glorious o enter the city and depart without moles-

But it is charged that this would have been humil-iating to General Lee and his officers, and that it is not the wish or desire of our Gov-comment or commenders to act toward them ernment or commanders to act toward them in any way that would tend to irritate their feelings or make their position more intol-erable than it actually is. The policy pur-sued is for the best, and our soldiers will submit, as they always do, to what is judg-ed most wise.

During Sunday night and Monday large numbers of the rebols, as well as some of their officers, made their escape from the lines and scattered to the woods, many of them no doubt intending to return home.
Our camps last night were filled with them, begging something to eat, which was freely given. These men, whon asked if they had been paroled, invariably replied, "No, but we are allowed to go where we please."

The number of men that General Lee claimed to be what to the solutions.

claimed to be able to give up was 18,000, is now every prospect of an active trade with muskets, with as many more mon from the Commissary, Quertermaster, Hospital and other Departments, but officers who have been permitted to pass through their camp assert that not more than 7,000 or 8,000 will be found to have surrendered. PROM WASHINGTON.

Washington, April 13. The Richmond Whip, in commenting on the address to the people of Virginia, says: It is understood that this invitation has been put forth in pursuance of the plan of proceeding assented to by President Lincoln.
At all events it will be halled by the great body of the people of Virginia as the first steps toward the reinstatement of the Old Dominion in the Union. It is probable that some of the members of the Legislature may decline to come. In every such case may decline to come. In every such case the people of the County or Senatorial dis-triet should select some influential and in-telligent citizen who is willing to take part in this business, and commission him, as far as they can, to represent them at the conference. The views and purposes of the members of the Legislature should be ascertained at once. Every one can fore-see difficulties in the way of formal action in the beginning. Several complex ques-tioni are to be met at the threshold, but where there is a will there is a way, and the important business must be undertaken. The report concerning the health of Mrs. General Robert E. Lee is, we learn, entire-ly without foundation.

The World's Washington special of to night says: It is stated that as soon as Gen. Lee decided to surrender, he set to work to davise some plan by which such action would result in peace. He proposed to Gon. Grant that if generous terms were granted him, he would himself go to General Johston and urge him to surrender Gen. Grant is understood to have met this proposition in the spirit in which it was made, and considering that he could represent President Lincoln in the matter, granted Lee even more liberal terms than granted Lee even more liberal terms than he suggested. It was finally decided that Grant would proceed to Washington and urge upon Mr. Lincoln to stop all recruiting, and issue a proclamation of amnesty; or in lieu thereof make it known that he would deal in a liberal manner with the soldiers and people of the South. In the meantime General Lee would visit General
